It is often invited to perform at famous venues and festivals all over the world, having covered Europe, North America, Asia, Australia and the Arctic Circle to date. It is therefore acclaimed as a leader among full-sized Chinese music ensembles in the international arena today. The Orchestra is set up in four sections: bowed-strings, plucked-strings, wind and percussion. The instruments include both the traditional and the improved, new versions: the bowed-string section has been using the Eco-Huqin series developed by the Orchestra since 2009. The HKCO performs both traditional Chinese music and contemporary, full-length works in a variety of musical formats and contents. It also explores new frontiers in music through commissioning over 2,400 new works of various types and styles, whether as original compositions or arrangements.

Apart from regular concerts and activities promoting arts education, the Orchestra has initiated several instrumental festivals, including the Hong Kong International Youth Chinese Music Festival, to honour its mission statement that “Music is to be shared”. Together with the citizens of Hong Kong, the Orchestra has achieved many Guinness World Records for having the largest number of people playing musical instruments at the same time. The Hong Kong Drum Festival, which the Orchestra launched in 2003, is now into its 20th year with no interruption in between, and has become a keenly-anticipated annual cultural event, in 2020, HKCO launched the International Drum Graded Exam with the Hong Kong Examinations and Assessment Authority.

Striving to ensure the transmission and development of Chinese music, the Orchestra has organised many symposia and competitions. Notable examples in recent years are ‘The International Composition Prize 2013’ co-organised with the Luxembourg Society for Contemporary Music, and the ‘Chinese Music Without Bounds - International Composition Competition’ in 2017. They have been acclaimed as platforms for composers to publish their new works and for musical exchange. The ‘International Conducting Competition for Chinese Music’, an initiative launched by the HKCO in 2011 and the first ever in the world, has been acclaimed as a milestone in the historical development of Chinese music, the competition has been held for 4 times to date. Besides, HKCO organised ‘The International Symposium for Chinese Music Conducting’ in 2011 and 2022, experts, scholars and orchestra conductors from various countries and regions attended.

HKCO is actively striving to connect with music lovers digitally via Cloud and linking hearts with activities online, the Orchestra held the first ‘HKCO Net Festival’ in 2020 and launched the ‘Net Concert Hall’, the first ever online Chinese Music Gallery in the world, in 2021. The Orchestra also produced music videos series and became the first to incorporate AR technology into its season brochure, embodying the trend of merging art, life and technology.

Other accolades and acclaims the Orchestra has won are its achievements in the arts, governance and administration, arts education, marketing and promotion, which includes ‘2024 Asia Excellence Brand Award’ from Yazhou Zhoukan and ‘The 17th Hong Kong Arts Development Awards - Award for Arts Promotion and Education’ etc. The Eco-Huqin series which the Orchestra developed has won not only the 4th Ministry of Culture Innovation Award in 2012, but also many other awards presented by various institutions for its green and innovative concepts. They add to the remarkable and highly commendable list of achievements in the history of the Hong Kong Chinese Orchestra. Programme Note

A Musical Adventure (Excerpts) Tan Kah Yong

Written as the theme song for the Ministry of Education (MOE) Chinese Orchestra Music Camp 2009, A Musical Adventure depicts the composer's journey of music education. It begins with a 'magical' phase where every musical note, chord, terms etc. that is introduced to the composer is a magical discovery to him. As the music lessons progressed into higher levels, the composer found them more and more difficult and challenging, very often having to endure hardship to be able to master the more complicated teachings that were taught. Persistence and perseverance lead the composer out of the complications to attain a certain level of musical competency. The piece is deliberately ended with a minor 9th chord to give an incomplete feel, denoting that music education is a continuous and never ending process.

Radetzky March (Excerpts) Johann Strauss Sr. Arr. by Qu Chunquan

Composed by Johann Strauss Sr. in 1848, the Radetzky March is a lively march honoring Austrian Field Marshal Joseph Radetzky's victory at the Battle of Custoza in Italy. With its upbeat tempo and catchy melody, it is one of Austria's most iconic marches, embodying the military glory and national spirit of the Austrian Empire at the time.

The piece consists of three main sections: a spirited opening theme, a light and cheerful melody, and a return to the bold, triumphant march style. Performances often feature audience participation with rhythmic clapping, fostering interaction between musicians and listeners. This tradition is especially prominent during its performance as an encore at the Vienna New Year's Concert, where the audience enthusiastically claps along.

More than just a military music, the Radetzky March has become a symbol of celebration and unity. Its joyful and dynamic style has endeared it to audiences worldwide, ensuring its timeless appeal.

Percussion and Orchestra Matsuri (Excerpts) Kitaro Arr. by Sim Boon Yew

Matsuri is the 6th movement from the 1990 album Kojiki by Japanese musician Kitaro, inspired by the ceremonial scenes of the sun goddess "Amaterasu" in the classical Japanese literature, Kojiki. The album blends electronic synthesizers with traditional instruments such as taiko drums and flutes, adapted into a Chinese orchestral ensemble version. Kojiki is one of the Japanese earliest history books. In this book, The Honji – Volume One, records ancient Japanese myths about the creation of heaven and earth, the formation of the land, and the birth of deities.

Drum Ensemble New Rolling Walnuts Wang Baocan, Hao Shixun Arr. by Quek Ling Kiong

This is an adaptation of a piece of drum music, Rolling Walnuts, from the Jiangzhou region, in Shanxi province. It is scored for the banhu and the suona in the lead and 12 plucked-string players in addition to the traditional drums. Its melody is derived from the folk tune On the Way to Jiangzhou, but its regional characteristics and singability have both been enhanced. This is written as an expression of the festive joy that prevails the villages after a good harvest, and describes how farmers on the loess peasants to dry the gathered walnuts on the slanting tiled roof of their houses and, when the walnuts have dried and matured, they would roll down the roofs when there is a breeze, and a crisp cracking sound is heard as they hit the ground. The drums, in a cadenza-like passage, describe the scene with forceful realism, while the plucked strings, arranged opposite the drums in a linear configuration, create stereophonic effect with the drums. Tapping of the string instruments is used frequently as a complement to the percussion instruments. On the other hand, the banhu and the suona play in dialogue, giving the work a three-dimensional effect, with instrumental groups configured on the left, right, up and down of the stage. This is a convincing work describing the generous and optimistic nature of the people of Jiangzhou, allowing also a glimpse of their unsophisticated and yet humorous nature.

Rolling Walnuts was awarded the Silver Prize in the second Galaxy Awards and, in 1992, won a first class award in the Chinese Folk Dance and Music Competition.

This version is a new arrangement by Quek Ling Kiong based on Rolling Walnuts.

Percussion Ensemble The Quarrelling Ducks An Zhishun

The music is inspired by an ancient piece of folk music from Xi'an called Xi'an Guluo. By employing the Chinese percussion instruments of xiaogu, shuibu, muyu and yunluo, the music gives a humorous onomatopoeia of ducklings at play. The audience can almost 'see' how they swaddle, and hear them quack, coo and squabble. The music won a Third Prize at the 3rd China Music Compositions Showcase in 1984.

Sunan Shifanluogu Eighteen-Six-Four-Two (Excerpts) Compiled by Li Minxiong

Eighteen-Six-Four-Two is a percussion piece for Sunan drum, qingluogu, characterized by vibrant gongs and drums that evoke a festive atmosphere. The composition follows a strict numerical and tonal sequence (Seven: paired cymbals; Inner: small gong; Same: large drum; King: horse gong), with a tightly knit structure. It comprises three main sections: 1) Introduction (Rapid Wind, Seeking Head, Seven-Note); 2) Main Body (Large Four Sections: Eighteen-Six-Four-Two, Small Four Sections: Fish and Eight); 3) Conclusion (Golden Olive, Snail Shell Finale). The music transitions from slow to progressively faster tempos, conveying the joyful atmosphere of festive celebrations.

Keyboard percussion and Orchestra Czardas Vittorio Monti Adapted by Lau Chi Lok

This is originally a popular violin piece. It is in the style of a Hungarian folk dance. It opens with a sentimental adagio and ends with a passionate allegro. The use for a brilliant transition phrases, rapid staccato and artificial harmonics extends the techniques on the erhu.

Dance of the Golden Snake Folk Melody Compiled by Nie Er Arr. by Tsui King Sun

This is a new arrangement based on the one by Nie Er, which in turn was based on the folk tune, Dao-Ba-Ban.

Dao-Ba-Ban, or Reversed Eight Beat, is an extended arrangement of another folk tune, Lao-Liu-Ban, or Old Six Beat. It took the last section of Lao-Liu-Ban, extended it, and used it as the beginning - hence the word 'reversed' in the title. Also, the original 'mi' in the second passage was changed to 'fa' and the tonic was transposed up a perfect fourth, giving the music a sonority and high spiritedness. In the third passage, the phrases engage in close dialogue as they move in an upward spiral, burgeoning in intensity until it culminates in the climax. The rousing gongs and drums add to the celebratory, joyous mood.

Song for Little Angels (Excerpts) Arr. by Sim Boon Yew

The music is a song cycle made up of nursery rhymes familiar to kindergarten children. It includes Yankee Doodle, Mary had a Little Lamb, How Much is That Doggie in the Window, Twinkle Twinkle Little Star, My Bonnie Lies over the Ocean, London Bridge is Falling Down, Red River Valley and She'll be Coming Round the Mountain.

Through these performances, children can understand the basics such as duple time, triple time and quadruple time in the structure of a piece of music. Despite its categorization as a children's song, the present arrangement is far from being plain and simple.

- Sim Boon Yew

Percussion Instruments You should know

Percussion instruments refer to musical instruments that are played by striking them with another object. Chinese percussion instruments have a long history and a sizable variety. They can be used to highlight the rhythm in music and create colourful tonal changes, or can be grouped together in ensemble playing. Percussion ensemble pieces differ in expression as the configuration differs.

Chinese traditional percussion instruments comprise the metal type (large gongs, small gongs, yunluo, cymbals, bells and chimes etc.), the wood type (clappers, bamboo clappers, bangzi and temple block etc.) and the skin type (dagu, paigu, biangu, bangu, hand drums etc.). The other set comprises Western percussion instruments such as timpani, xylophone, chimes, glockenspiel, vibraphone, bass drum, snare drum and cymbals, etc.

Drum is one of the ancient percussion instruments in Chinese history, classified as membranophones. The drumhead is typically made from animal hide stretched over a frame. The drum body, which serves as the resonating chamber, is usually crafted from wood with a slightly curved shape. Among the drums, bangu has a long history of circulation in folk traditions and is frequently used in Chinese opera orchestras.

Cymbals feature a raised central dome as the fixed point, with the surrounding copper plates vibrating to produce sound, lacking a fixed pitch.

Keyboard instruments are those with arranged keys, each corresponding to a fixed pitch, making them versatile for all types of music. Common keyboard instruments include the xylophone, glockenspiel and marimba.
